WTO and India
Issues and Negotiating Strategies

Alokesh Barua
Robert M. Stern
India and the WTO: Issues and Negotiating Strategies
Alokesh Barua and Robert M. Stern, Editors
New Delhi: The Orient Longman, 2010

About the Book

This book serves two purposes. It provides a straightforward exposition of the complex issues pertaining to the WTO agreements and negotiations, and it presents rigorous analyses of the impact of the WTO-induced reforms on the Indian economy. The book addresses a number of salient issues, including: why trade liberalization might be beneficial for both developed and developing countries and in their long-run economic interests; what India’s interests are in a multilateral forum like the WTO and how best India could utilize this forum to realize maximum advantage; whether India has a clear cut and well-defined set of negotiating strategies; how the economic reforms have affected different segments of the economy since the inception of the WTO in 1995; whether the reform measures conform to India’s long-term economic interests; whether the benefits from the WTO-induced reforms are fairly and evenly distributed across the regions and across the population; and whether there is evidence to support that economic reforms have led to a decrease in income inequality and poverty in India. Our hope accordingly is that this book will contribute towards the understanding of the causality between the actual economic events and the WTO induced reforms.
The WTO and India: Issues and Negotiating Strategies

CONTENTS

Abbreviation and short explanations of terms i-xii
International Standards of measurement xiii

Acknowledgement xiv-xvi

1. Introduction
   Alokesh Barua and Robert M Stern 1-23

   Section I: A Developing Countries Perspective

2. The WTO and Trade Negotiations: A Developing Country Viewpoint
   Manoj Pan 24-63

3. The WTO and our Role in the World Economy of the Future
   Ashok Guha 37-40

   Section II: Negotiating Options and Strategies

4. India and Coalitions in Multilateral Trade Negotiations
   Manmohan Agarwal 41-57

5. Searching for the Missing Link: India's 'Negotiation Strategy' at WTO?
   Debasis Chakraborty 58-69

6. Designing a Pro-active Stance for India in the Doha Development Agenda Negotiations
   Alan V Deardorff and Robert M Stern 70-79

7. India at Doha: Retrospect and Prospect
   Arvind Panagariya 80-102

   Section III: Market Access: Agriculture, Manufactures and Textiles

8. WTO Agriculture Negotiations and India
   Ramesh Chand 103-120
   Alokesh Barua, Debasish Chakraborty and Pavel Chakraborty
   121-144

10. How Big is the Bang for India? Market Access in Textiles
    Samar Verma
    145-168

Section IV: Trade Facilitation and Government Procurement

11. Regional Integration through Trade Facilitation: Integrating East India with Bangladesh and North India with Central Asia
    Pritam Banerjee, Dipankar Sengupta and Phunchok Stobdan
    169-195

12. Transparency in Government Procurement: A Case Study of India
    Sandwip Kumar Das
    196-213

Section V: TRIPS and GATS

13. The TRIPS Agreement: Public Health Concerns for India
    Amit S Ray
    214-227

14. GATS and India: Negotiations in Mode 3
    Rashmi Banga
    228-249

15. GATS Negotiations in Environmental Services: A developing country perspective with special reference to India
    Aparna Sawhney
    250-263

Section VI: Growth, Poverty and Inequality

16. Trade and Poverty in the Poor Countries
    Jagdish Bhagwati and T. N. Srinivasan
    264-268

17. Globalization, Growth and the Poor
    T. N. Srinivasan and Jessica Seddon wallack
    269-285

18. Income Distribution, Structural Change and International Trade: A Developing Countries Perspective with Special Reference to India
    Ananya Ghosh Dastidar
    286-313

19. Trade Liberalization and Income Inequality: An Analysis of Inter-Regional Income Inequality in India
    Alokesh Barua and Pavel Chakraborty
    314-336

Complete Bibliography

Contributors