

The International Policy Center

Global Policy Perspectives Symposia

A new IPC series engaging distinguished external speakers and UM experts on key issues in international policy

Fall 2008

First 2 in a 4-Part Series

Each event will be followed by a reception

November 11, 2008

Ford School of Public Policy, Room W1230

4:00 — 5:30 PM

“The Effects of the US Election on the European Union”

James Adams

University of Michigan, Professor of Economics
US Government Consultant on Europe

Jacques Rupnik

Science Po, Paris, Professor of Political Science
Visiting Professor, Harvard
Former Head of the Carnegie Commission on the Balkans

Jan Svejnar

Director, IPC
University of Michigan, Professor of Business,
Economics and Public Policy

December 3rd, 2008

Ford School of Public Policy, Annenberg Auditorium

4:00 — 5:30 PM

“How Should the New Administration Approach Trade with Latin America?”

Gary Hufbauer

Reginald Jones Senior Fellow,
Peterson Institute for International Economics

Katherine Terrell

University of Michigan, Professor of Business,
Economics and Public Policy
Advisor to the World Bank and Government of Honduras

Alberto Trejos

INCAE, Costa Rica, Professor of Economics
Towsley Visiting Professor, Fall 2008
Former Costa Rica Minister of Foreign Trade

Symposia Cosponsors: The International Policy Students Association and The Emerging Markets Club

